Subcontracting in Rural Areas of Thailand*

by

Donald C. Mead

*This paper has been developed and published as part of Michigan State University's Off-Farm Employment Project, which is financed by the Office of Multi-Sector Development, Bureau of Science and Technology, U.S. Agency for International Development (AID/ta-CA-2). The author acknowledges with thanks the many exchanges of views with researchers of the Rural Off-Farm Employment Assessment Project at Kasetsart University. Thanks are also due to Paul Strassmann and Steve Haggblade for a careful reading of an earlier draft. Of course none of these is implicated for remaining mistakes.

MSU INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT PAPERS

Eric W. Crawford, Carl K. Eicher and Carl Liedholm, Co-Editors

The MSU International Development Paper series is designed to further the comparative analysis of international development activities in Africa, Latin America, Asia and the Near East. The papers report research findings on historical, as well as contemporary, international development programs. The series includes papers on a wide range of topics, such as alternative rural development strategies; non-farm employment and small-scale industry; housing and construction; farming and marketing systems; food and nutrition policy analysis; economics of rice production in West Africa; technological change, employment, and income distribution; computer techniques for farm and marketing surveys; and farming systems research. While the papers mainly convey the research findings of MSU faculty and visiting scholars, a few papers will be published by researchers and policy-makers working together with MSU scholars on research and action programs in the field.

The papers are aimed at teachers, researchers, policy-makers, donor agencies, and international development practitioners. Selected papers will be translated into French, Spanish, or Arabic. A list of available papers and their prices may be obtained from:
