

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First and foremost, this dissertation is dedicated to my loving family: my parents Sevedeo and Corazon, my brother Ray, my sister Myrla, and my niece, Marylene. Their unconditional love and unending support of my personal endeavors has been a major factor in giving me the determination to complete this D.B.A. program.

I am especially grateful to my advisor Dr. Somdee Hongphisavit for her guidance and encouragement throughout my doctoral studies. She gave her valuable time to offer detailed constructive comments in my writing and research methods and pushed me to excel in research.

My supervisory committee, comprised of Dr. Orose Leelakulthanit (NIDA), Dr. Somkiat Eiamkanchanalai (CU), Dr. Cholyeun Hongpaisanwiwat (TU), and Dr. Robert T. Green (TU) is kind to provide me with critical comments to improve my study. Special thanks to Dr. Orose for her suggestions on the wording of my questionnaire items and the statistical results.

Assumption University (AU) and the ABAC School of Management have provided financial and other support for the completion of this dissertation, for which I am obliged. I am particularly grateful to Dr. Vindhai Cocracul, AU Deputy V.P. of Academic Affairs, who first suggested that I make my contribution to higher education through earning a doctorate degree and conducting research.

My friends and colleagues have been instrumental in seeing me through this program. I am indebted to my colleagues Pattana Boonchoo, Rattanawadee Puttpong, Sasithorn Phonkaew, and Dr. Amonrat Thoumrungroje, for their thoroughness and readiness to translate my questionnaire. Amonrat was also a helpful coach for the data analysis. Dr. Wiyada Nittayagasetwat, my senior in the JDBA program, was extremely supportive in advising me throughout the program. Amonrat and Wiyada... thank you for your friendship, advice, and emotional support.

The JDBA Office has also been very helpful in facilitating me through this entire educational process. Program Secretariats, Dr. Pipop Udorn and Dr. Pornchai Chunchinda were always encouraging and helped me through the program procedures. I am also appreciative of the administrative support readily provided by the office staff.

Finally, and most importantly, I extend the utmost appreciation to the Pharmaceutical Research & Manufacturers Association (PReMA) for its endorsement and all the pharmaceutical firms and their industrious sales managers and sales representatives who shared their insights and valuable time to this research undertaking. Special thanks to Hattaya Pompinipong, friend and medical representative, for her networking skills in securing me with many interviews with sales managers and representatives.

Without the valuable contributions from these aforementioned individuals and organizations, the completion of my doctorate degree would not have been possible. Thank you very much!