

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

At various stages of doing the thesis I have gained considerably from the assistance of many people. My first debt of gratitude goes to my supervisor Dr. Sirilaksana Khoman. She has been most generous in guiding me. Her arguments on my work both economics and English have been a great source of support. Furthermore she is the teacher who has contributed to my understanding of the area of micro economics.

I am also very indebted to Dr. Praipol Koomsup and Dr. Yuavares Tubpun, committee members of my thesis. Their constructive criticisms have led to substantial improvement in the work and have permitted its completion.

The Siam Commercial Bank is gratefully acknowledged for granting the scholarship and computer facility enabling me to pursue and complete my graduate study. I must also mention with pleasure Ms. Chuanchan Hemarajata, Ms. Kemachar Suwanagul, Mr. Weerapong Rujanachot, Mr. Veerakiat Tretanakitti, Mr. Adool Junngam and other bank officers in the Training Department for their generous help. I wish to thank the NIEO Program (New International Economic Order) of the Faculty of Economics, Thammasat University for their financial support in doing the research.

I should also like to record my debt to Ms. Atjira the officer of the Bank of Thailand and Mr. Prapan and Mr. Sorut the officers of the Department of Business Economics, Ministry of Commerce for their endless patience in explaining the method to construct the price indices of imports and home goods. Without the data they very kindly provided to me , I certainly would not have completed my research.

My thanks are specially to my assistants, Ms. Somruthai Sae Lim, Ms. Prapaporn Nilsuwankosit, Ms. Tipawan Sae Lee, Mr. Rut Dumrong Sri and my friends. They were very patient in collecting the data of prices of imports and exports.

Helpful suggestions for the sources of information and data came from Mr. Somboon Siriprachai and Mr. Somchai Jitsuchon. At many stages of doing this thesis, I profited from the idea and criticisms of Mr. Woot Puttamon. I owe them a considerable debt of thanks.

Brothers and sister of Yanpaisan and Jirapattanasophon provided computer facility and invaluable help on computer problems.

I must also express appreciation to Mr. Prawit Ruangsirikulchai who is very kind to comment on the first draft of the thesis. Thanks are also due to Ms. Woranood Wootiutadom for her supportive editorial assistance. My gratitude extends to Ms. Pachara Bunchoo, Ms. Porntipa Kornpinyopap and Mr. Somchai Chotimanoth for their helpfulness in solving problems occurring from computer. For Ms. Porntipa I would like to thank her quick and precise typing of all the entire script.

I owe a greater debt than she may realize to my good friend, Ms. Jiraporn Plangpraphan who has given me encouragement and assistance from time to time. Useful comments, facts, references, various kinds of assistance and encouragement along the period of studying come from my classmates. I want to express my sincere thanks to all of them.

Most special, my brothers and sisters; Khamthorn, Karuna, Kriengkrai, Ruttiya and Orawan give me invaluable help in preparing this thesis. My warm thanks to them all. To Mom, I would like to express my deep gratitude for her constant moral support and encouragement. Naturally, none of these named bear the slightest responsibility for any errors or omissions in this thesis.

Finally I extend my apologies to those many people who contributed to this thesis whom I have not mentioned by name here.

Yupana Wiwattanakantang

Thammasat University

Bangkok

February 1991