

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First, I would like to express my profound gratitude to Dr. Suphat Suphachalasai, my chairman thesis committee, for his generous guidance, invaluable suggestions and encouragement. Next, I am indebted to Dr. Vatchareeya Thosanguan, Dr. Sakda Thanitcul, the member of my thesis committee, and Dr. Sirilaksana Khoman who inspired my work, for their constructive comments and suggestions that substantially improved my thesis. Also my gratitude is expressed to Department of Internal Trade and Department of Foreign Trade officers who have contributed to the fulfillment of my thesis and providing valuable information.

I gratefully acknowledge Thai Farmer Bank Public Company Limited for granting scholarship during my academic years.

I also would like to extend my appreciation to my colleagues, Economic Faculty officers, computer room staffs and Puey Ungpakorn Library of Thammasat University for their supports.

Last but not least, my deepest appreciation and gratitude go to my beloved parents for their greatest affection. Moreover, I would like to take this opportunity to thank Brucker-Cohen Family and Cathy B. Ernst, my host families, from a hub of my heart for their love and supports.

I am entirely responsible for all deficiencies, ambiguities and flaws in this study.

Thammasat University
Bangkok, Thailand

Pasakorn Thammachote
May, 1999