

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The author would like to take this opportunity to express her great gratitude toward her advisor, Associate Professor Dr. Ruengsak Kawtummachai, for his great valuable guidance, continuous support with sincere dedication and supervision throughout the study. The author is extremely grateful to the member of examination committee, Associate Professor Dr. Pisal Yenradee and Associate Professor Dr. Navee Chaiadamrong for their useful comments and suggestions.

Grateful acknowledgement is also contributed to her senior in Industrial Engineering and Management Technology Program for their suggestions and support during her study. Moreover, special thank is due to the secretary of Industrial Engineering Program, Ms. Pareena Thaibumrongwiwat for her kindness, coordination and helpful throughout this study. Finally, the author is grateful to her beloved parents and other family members for their tremendously endurance, understanding and continuous religious support. Without which this research could not have been completed.

